Faith Leaders Join Habitat for Humanity of York County for Clergy Day in Clover, SC Wednesday, October 29, 2025

Clover, SC – Today, faith leaders from across York County are coming together with Habitat for Humanity of York County (HFHYC) for Clergy Day at the Common Ground Build site with the Starr family on Mobley Street in Clover. This event is part of HFHYC's Jimmy & Rosalynn Carter Work Project Rural Rally and highlights the strong, longstanding partnership between Habitat and local faith communities.

Clergy Day provides faith leaders the opportunity to see Habitat's mission in action while engaging directly with the Starr family, whose new home is being constructed through the Rural Rally. Volunteers will witness Habitat's construction process, learn about community outreach initiatives, and see firsthand how affordable homeownership transforms lives.

Habitat's Longstanding Faith Partnerships

Faith communities have been integral to Habitat's work in York County, contributing as supporters, advocates, and volunteers. Clergy Day continues this tradition, fostering collaboration between Habitat and faith leaders while strengthening the ties that help make safe, affordable homeownership possible for families in the community.
