Habitat for Humanity of York County Hosts Jimmy & Rosalynn Carter Work Project Rural Rally in Clover, SC

Clover, SC – Habitat for Humanity of York County (HFHYC) is proud to announce its participation in the Jimmy & Rosalynn Carter Work Project Rural Rally, taking place locally October 29 through November 1 on Mobley Street in Clover, South Carolina. This special event will bring together volunteers from across the region to support the construction of a five-bedroom, single-family home with Clover resident Ashton Starr and her family, who have a long and rich history in the community.

As part of the Rural Rally, volunteers will assist with key construction projects, including painting the interior of the home and installing Hardie Board siding. In addition to hands-on building, HFHYC will host community outreach initiatives, including “Knock and Talks,” where volunteers will go door-to-door to provide residents with information on disaster response and resiliency—an especially timely effort given York County’s experience with natural disasters in recent years.

A Legacy of Service: The Jimmy & Rosalynn Carter Work Project

The Jimmy & Rosalynn Carter Work Project (JCWP) began in 1984 when former President Jimmy Carter and First Lady Rosalynn Carter partnered with Habitat for Humanity to raise awareness about the global need for affordable housing. Since then, the Carters have inspired thousands of volunteers worldwide to build homes alongside families in need. Each year, the Work Project brings national attention to affordable homeownership, highlighting the impact of collaborative volunteer efforts in communities large and small. HFHYC is honored to host this Rural Rally as part of the ongoing Carter legacy of service and compassion.
